How to Increase Resilience within your Staff

Briefing Session

The notion of everyday challenges within a school environment means that staff need high levels of resilience in order to adapt and positively react to the challenging and difficult circumstances they may face.

With our resilience training we provide all staff with the tools needed to become even more resilient and as a result create a high performing and protected work force.

The course will cover:

- Understanding what resilience is and why it is so important within your organisation.
- Motivators of resilience within your organisation
- Situations that may impact on staff resilience within your organisation
- How to monitor resilience within your organisation
- The role that senior leaders have in building staff resilience
